

What can I do if I study . . .

Journalism & Communications

in college?

College programs in Journalism and Communications prepare you to deliver information to others. In some programs, you will learn to present information in a written or spoken media. Other programs prepare you to use new technologies or to analyze data. Some programs are short-term certificates or diplomas and some are 4-year or graduate studies. Check out the information about Journalism and Communications programs in GCIS.

Listed below are some of the programs available for you:

- Advertising
- Broadcast Journalism
- Communications & Speech Studies
- Digital Communication & Media
- Journalism
- Mass Communication Studies
- Public Relations
- Radio & Television

Training in Journalism and Communications is related to careers in some of the following occupations:

- Advertising Manager
- Advertising Salesperson
- Agent & Business Manager
- Art Director
- Broadcast Technician
- Camera Operator
- Data Communications Analyst
- Editor
- Film & Video Editor
- Graphic Designer
- Marketing Manager
- News Reporter
- Photographer
- Producer & Director
- Public Relations Manager
- Public Relations Specialist
- Sound Engineering Technician
- Technical Writer
- Writer